RE: Music By The Gull 2016

Music by the Gull series starts June 24

When it comes to Music by the Gull, the show must go on, insist community organizations. Treasurer of Minden Lions Club Brian Moore, left, Jack Brezina, president of Rotary Club of Minden Betty Mark, and Highlands Wind Symphony co-conductor Glen Carter join ranks to celebrate the event's 25th year. Moore presents a cheque to Carter on behalf of the Minden Lions Club sponsoring $2,000 worth of local acts, including Custom Blend and Trina West. The Rotary Club of Minden is sponsoring Music by the Gull's $5 million insurance policy. Gary Thurston continues to donate hydro, parking, storage space, and free advertisement on his wall. From June 24 until Labour Day, all plan to get out their lawn chairs for the weekly event and enjoy what Carter calls a "casual, fun and accessible" opportunity to meet the neighbours and dance by the river. /ANGELA LONG Staff

TLDSB plan focuses on innovation and collaboration

Trillium Lakelands District School Board approved a new multi-year strategic plan at Wednesday's board meeting. The new plan highlights three main focus areas for high levels of student achievement: innovation and collaboration in learning for all; supporting the well-being of all; and valuing the strength of everyone's voice.

The new plan was developed after an extensive, engaging, and innovative consultation called "Your Voice Matters." Two consultation sessions were held in April and in May and a unique online engagement tool gathered thoughts from staff, students, parents, and community members.

"This new plan is the amazing result of hearing what people had to say about what they liked, what they didn't like, and what they'd like to see added to our strategic planning," stated board chair, Louise Clodd, "This will guide our system leadership and our trustees in their planning and conversations around helping students become the very best they can be."

The 2016-2021 Strategic Plan will be used by senior administrators to develop their annual action plan for the upcoming 2016-2017 school year. Each of the three main focus areas have corresponding ways that the board is committed to high levels of student achievement.

"Top themes, chosen by everyone who participated in Your Voice Matters, have been woven into the development and wording of this new plan," states Director of Education Larry Hope, "I am looking forward to our continued planning using the words in this strategic plan as our guide. It encompasses engagement on all levels, as was expressed in our previous plan. It also speaks to our commitment to educating the whole child which includes not only teaching and learning, but also well-being."

TLDSB 2016-2021 Strategic Plan

In TLDSB we are committed to high levels of student achievement through:

Innovation And Collaboration In Learning For All

We accomplish this by:

- identifying strengths and needs of each student to provide appropriate programming;
- supporting innovation in the classroom;
- advancing new technologies for learning;
- providing relevant and timely learning opportunities;
- learning in the natural environment; and
- enhancing the arts in our schools.

Supporting The Well-Being Of All

We accomplish this by:

> "This new plan is the amazing result of hearing what people had to say about what they liked, what they didn't like, and what they'd like to see added to our strategic planning.
> — Louise Clodd, Board Chair

- embedding Feed All Four (our mind, body, spirit, emotions) as our way of being;
- growing and improving students through intentional assessment and evaluation;
- using physical activity to improve our bodies and brains;
- providing safe, caring and inclusive learning environments; and
- increasing mental health understanding to reduce stigma.

Valuing The Strength Of Everyone's Voice

We accomplish this by …

- seeking student perspectives and responding to what we hear;
- working alongside parents as partners in programming and learning;
- strengthening a focus on being in service to our community;
- welcoming collaboration with our community partners; and
- sharing our stories.

The full plan will be given a name and presented to school administrators and school staff at the start of the new school year. The Your Voice Matters campaign results will soon be published on the board website. Visitors to the website will be able to see the themes that emerged from the consultation as well as the thoughts and stars provided by participants.

Vignettes from life: the bovine bellow!

By Peter Walford-Davis

Do you believe in miracles? Many years ago I might have tried to dodge that question, but now my answer is a resounding yes! I do believe. It happened this way.

Though still an undergraduate, in a theological school, I was in demand for Sunday services. Funny, I would be in the Presbyterian church one Sunday and in the Baptist Church two Sundays later, and possibly in a Congregational Church the following Sabbath. The Sunday of the miracle found me preaching in a little wooden Presbyterian church in northern New York.

It was built upon rock, out in the open, surrounded by fields. I strongly suspect that the church land had been given by a Scotsman. Why you ask? Because he had run his fence line from the road to the corner of the little church, and then picked up his fence again at the back corner of the church. (Why not be prudent, and save a little fencing cost?), and in that field grazed a small herd of cows.

It was a sweltering hot Sunday afternoon. And without any shade to dispel the rays of the sun, I felt as if I was a fried egg in a hot skillet. It was so hot that the varnish on the pulpit stuck to my hand. The dozen or so worshippers were already in various stages of somnolence, after all, they were farmers. Many of whom had had their dinner at noon, and would normally have taken the opportunity to sleep for an hour or two before getting ready to do evening chores.

The service dragged – even I was getting lethargic, what with the heat, and the buzzing of the flies. The only respite came in the form of two hornets, who made unexpected forays past the noses of the dozing parishioners, but all this brought forth was a half-hearted swat!

I was about five minutes into my message, dutifully preaching about the word of our Creator, when, through the open window I noticed one of the cows meander slowly towards the church. My now somnolent worshippers were quite oblivious to anything going on around them, and even the hornets had found the effort too much and had retired to contemplate their next move.

The cow drew closer, and closer to the open window – stuck her head in and let out one very loud bellow, that literally lifted all the holy ones at least 12 inches off the pews!

There sure were some very sheepish expressions on their faces. The cow having suitably awakened the parishioners, returned to the herd with the same leisurely pace, and I was able to finish my message and service with a wide-awake congregation! Truly, our Creator has a

New student trustee starts term

Student trustee Sam Koop introduced trustees to the incoming student trustee for the 2016-2017 school year, Carmen Galea. Members of the 2015-2016 G7 Student Senate shared an update of the year's events with the board including a Wellness Week, the Pasta Challenge, and the G7 Student Leadership Conference during their meeting June 15. cool sense of humour!

Now, whenever I see a herd of cows, I cannot help but think of that sultry afternoon in the little Beech Plains Church. Whatever possessed that cow to leave the others, meander across the field, and deliver that one earth shattering bellow, I'll never know, but it sure added spice to that service! And our Creator certainly moves in mysterious ways.

Chamber of commerce looks to year ahead

By Angelica Ingram

With a year of changes behind them, the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is looking forward to the upcoming year and the opportunities that exist for the business organization.

President Jerry Walker reviewed some of the standout moments for the chamber at their annual general meeting on June 14 at Sir Sam's Inn.

While the winter months continue to be a challenge for local businesses, this year's spring/summer season has started out strong for retailers and construction still remains to be a strong sector of the economy, said Walker.

During the 2015/2016 year, the chamber held an insightful manufacturing roundtable, which presented its findings to local municipalities, as well as a successful awards gala this past February, recognizing outstanding achievement in the community.

"From what I understand that gala sold out in 48 hours," said Walker.

The organization also sold the building that houses the county's tourism information centre, located in Minden.

"That's cash in the bank for us," said Walker.

The past year also saw some staffing changes at the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, as the board of directors announced earlier this year that former manager Rosemarie Jung was no longer with the organization.

Walker thanked Jung for her time with the chamber.

The manager position has not yet been filled, as the board decides next steps for the organization.

The position of member services representative was given to Autumn Smith, after Lauren Hunter left the organization last year.

Four directors stepped down from the board, including Eric Thompson, Pasi Posti, Hilary Elia and Aaron Walker.

Walker thanked them for their time and announced a new slate of directors up for election, including Sarah Adams, Stefan Bjelis, Trevor Chaulk, Luke Schell, Andrea Strano and Richard Wannan.

Directors that were re-elected to the board include Walker, Cheryl McCombe, Bram Lebo, Linda Baumgartner, Glenn Evans, Lauren Forbes and Lisa Gregorini.

Financial statements for the past year showed the organization experienced a dip in revenues, from $122,903 in 2015 to $119,522 in 2016.

There was also a dip in expenses during 2016, which left the chamber in a healthy position.

Walker said the board will be reviewing aspects of the budget in the coming year, including a possible decrease in membership fees.

The constitution was amended to set a minimum number of board of director members to five, with a maximum of 13. There are currently 13 members on the board.

The meeting also included guest speaker Scott Boutilier from the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, who spoke on the changes employers can expect to see regarding the Ontario Retirement Pension Plan.

A senior policy analyst, Boutilier gave a brief history of the provincial chamber's advocacy in helping to shape the ORPP and what the phase in period will mean for business owners.

With an implementation date set for Jan. 1, 2018, there is still much to be done in shaping the ORPP, said Boutilier.

Scott Boutilier, senior policy analyst from the Ontario Chamber of Commerce was the guest speaker at the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce's annual general meeting on June 14 at Sir Sam's Inn. Boutilier spoke on the Ontario Retirement Pension Plan and what it will mean for local employers. ANGELICA INGRAM Staff

Not their first rodeo

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

The upcoming RAM Rodeo event in Minden has got me thinking how lucky we are to live in an age where there are still enough cowboys to participate in a rodeo. Like it or not, real cowboys are now a rare breed.

In fact, if we keep losing them, I imagine we'll have to go to rodeos where aging cowboys continue to compete and entertain just to keep the rodeo tradition alive.

That wouldn't be too bad, but it might lead in a modification of the events so they remain age appropriate to cowboys entering their senior years.

Here are a few, I'd suggest.

1. Ducking broncos: In this timed event, the old cowboys, now wise from experience, would gain points for each minute they could avoid riding a fearsome bronco based on their long list of rodeo-related medical complaints.
2. Bull riding: It's essentially the same event as always except that there will be added points for those who still have their false teeth at the end of the run.
3. Tie-down roping: Unlike the actual event, this one would judge the elderly cowboy on how quickly he could affix himself to the bronco he's about to ride.
4. Bareback riding: This event would showcase elderly cowboys on horseback in hospital gowns.
5. Barrel riding: In this event the cowboys would actually ride a barrel. Last one to fall off wins.
6. Barrel racing: Old cowboys would place rodeo clowns in barrels and then roll them down a hill as payback for the all the attention they stole over the years.
7. The restroom stampede: In this event elderly cowboys with bladder issues would have to drink three beers and then race to the one porta-potty in the centre of the ring.
8. Calf roping: Competitors would have to lasso their own calfs and hog-tie themselves in order to avoid having to ride Old Diablo.
9. Pigeon roping: Imagine old cowboys sitting on park benches roping passing pigeons and then feeding them.
10. The Bull Taming contest: In this events, the wise old cowboys will try to talk sense into the bull they are about to be thrown from. Competitors will be allowed to show photos of their grandkids and tell stories about their varicose veins and how "If I've learned one thing in life, it's that deep down we're all the same..."

The Heritage Ballet Studio dancers lead hundreds in a procession during the SIRCH Community Services' Release of the Butterflies event at the Minden Cultural Centre, preceding the release on Sunday, June 12 on the Riverwalk in Minden. The second year of the event raised $14,400 and drew hundreds, who donated money for an opportunity to release 300 butterflies. This event, which included live entertainment, dancing and 40 volunteers, is a major fundraiser for the SIRCH Bereavement Program./DARREN LUM Staff

River cruising in Holland and Belgium

Linda Coneybeare
Travel Plus

I have recently returned from an AMA Waterways River Cruise of Holland and Belgium.

What a wonderful trip! River cruising has increased in popularity for the past few years and I know why. I was fortunate enough to have sailed with Uniworld five years ago along the Douro River in Portugal, and this recent river cruise was just as wonderful!

This latest trip was tulip time in The Netherlands and waffle and chocolate time in Belgium.Yum!

I boarded the AMA Waterways ship, the AmaPrima, in the port of Amsterdam. The port is located close by the central train station so it was very convenient for quick five minute train ride into the heart of Amsterdam. River cruises always include complimentary daily tours at the various towns and cities along the river system. My itinerary included Ghent, Bruges, Edam (as in cheese), Arnhem and Williamstead.

You all know my love of history and the movies. Well, this trip allowed me to visit The Bridge Too Far as well as Monuments Men. The town of Arnhem is where the Bridge Too Far is located and was part of the site of Operation Market Garden: Bernard Montgomery's plan to liberate Holland in September 1944. So close and yet so far. The city of Nijmegen was liberated but Arnhem, only 10 miles away, was still under Nazi occupation until March of 1945. I visited the War Museum and Commonwealth Cemetery.

In the beautiful cities of Ghent and Bruges I saw the Altarpiece of Ghent and the beautiful Madonna and Child sculpture by Michelangelo, as seen in the movie Monuments Men. The Nazis had stolen these and they were retrieved at the end of the war, found in a salt mine in Austria and returned to where they belonged.

River cruising is a very relaxing way to visit various small towns while enjoying all the amenities of a five star hotel, but on a small ship. The average occupancy is 130 passengers. One of the features I liked was how the staff were so friendly, and the dining room staff were quick to remember your likes and dislikes (I didn't experience any dislikes).

The food is amazing, lots to choices to select from on the menu, and the cost of the cruise includes wine and beer with your lunch and dinner. As well, as the itinerary included Belgium, there was the opportunity to go to a brewery (or two or three) and try a variety of their beer. I don't like the taste of beer, never have, never will. However, Belgium is also famous for their fine chocolate and fine waffles so I did not feel neglected.

Here at Travelplus we are booking these popular river cruises often a year in advance. Early booking rate discounts and complimentary airfare to and from Europe are just two of the early booking incentives being offered for 2017.

One of my bucket list trips is an African tour and cruise offered by AMA Waterways combining a South Africa tour with a sail along the Zambezi River, and a tour of Victoria Falls. Imagine being able to view the animals coming down at sunrise and sunset to drink from your cozy cabins or on the top deck observatory on this unique itinerary. Many years ago I was fortunate enough to travel to Kenya, but did not make it to Treetops. This is a hotel built into the tree canopy near a popular waterhole. You are able to watch the animals without disturbing them, which is what eco tourism is all about.Trivia note: Treetops in Kenya is where our Queen Elizabeth was staying when her father, King George VI died.

I have no travel plans at the moment (I know, what a surprise!) however I am going to enjoy being Nana-Grandma Linda for a few months. My daughter Chloe and her husband Peter Choi just had their first baby, Levi Choi born May 11. My son Patrick and his wife Jashelle, besides having two delightful little ones, Frost and Rowdy, are expecting their third child in June so I am not travelling far. I will enjoy my grandchildren for a few months.

Machenzie hopes to travel to Barcelona in July and will be sure to tell you about that trip at a later date. We are booking for winter 2017 already with great early booking incentives. I will tell you more in another column.

OPP warn of new extortion scam

A resident of the City of Kawartha Lakes received a threatening email last week. A similar email was received by a resident of Haliburton Highlands. The writer states they are connected to groups responsible for deadly bombings throughout the world and that they've been hired by a friend of the recipient to have them killed. The email requires the recipient to reply to a specific email and to be prepared to send money.

Although all threats should be taken seriously, police believe this is a scam being used to extort money through fear. Police are reminding residents to not open emails from people they do not know. Computer programs are capable of generating random email addresses. If an email is opened from one of these programs you may be subjected to future fraud attempts. Ensure you have a current firewall or anti-virus and anti-spyware software installed on your computer.

Frauds and attempted frauds can be reported to your local police and to the Canadian Anti-Fraud Center at 1-888-495-8501. For more information on current frauds visit the Canadian Anti-Fraud Center online.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Biodiversity Cycles is a free "Nature Hike from the Seat of your Bike" Sunday, June 26, which invites lapsed and novice cyclists of all ages and abilities to explore distinct natural habitats along the Haliburton County Rail Trail. Meet at 9 a.m. for orientation at the Rail Trail parking lot 7286 Gelert Rd, just south of Haliburton Village. The group will meander out as soon as everyone's comfortable with their bike fit, and will take a leisurely approach to discovering nature. Led by Pamela Marsales of Friends of the Rail Trail, and sponsored by BEAN - Biodiversity Education and Awareness Network, this event celebrates International Biodiversity Day. Children: bring your grand parents. Tweens and teens: bring your friends. Bike club members: invite your neighbours. Encourage anyone you know who loves the outdoors and nature to get that dusty bike out of the garage. This is just for fun and to learn a little bit about the diverse habitats we can appreciate along the former railway line. It's easy and non-intimidating. All are welcome! Bring water and a snack, but most of all, bring your curiosity and a sense of wonderment. Please call Pamela at 705-457-4767 to confirm details; see you Sunday for Biodiversity Cycles.
